Examined by Cheryl Fryd, J.D., 2009

Applicants' resumes and written responses to the interview were read and carefully checked to determine the accuracy of any argument or statement attributed to the examiner. In addition, the law offices of the examiner and the attorneys representing the applicant(s) were contacted to determine the accuracy of any statements made by the examiner. If the statements made by the examiner are not accurate, the examiner should send a letter setting forth the correct language to the applicant(s) and the attorney(s) representing the applicant(s). If the statements are complete and accurate, the examiner should indicate the interview is OK. The examiner should also indicate the interview is OK if the examiner is not available to conduct the interview.
